Congratulations!

If you are reviewing this guide it means you are exploring the possibility of an internship, one of the most valuable experiences you can undertake as an undergraduate. Staff in our Career & Internship Center are prepared to help you in this endeavor.

As you know, earning a college degree is one the most important steps you can take to ensure that you will be able to land a well-paying job and launch a rewarding career. That said, students who have completed an internship have an additional leg up when they explore career and life opportunities. Internships not only enable you to explore possible career paths, they are a practical and very real way to gain experience, making you a more attractive candidate to employers. In fact, most JSC students who complete an internship say they either received a full-time job at their internship site or obtained a position in large part because of their internship. Internships clearly pay off!

Beyond the immediate, practical advantages of internships, there are less tangible but equally important benefits. Internships help students develop their skills, gain confidence and learn more about themselves and what they want out of life, both personally and professionally.

Internships are a defining experience of your time at Johnson State College. They offer the opportunity to work alongside professionals in the field and gain valuable, real-world experience that speaks volumes on a resume — and they expose to you experiences and people who will support your career journey.

This is exciting stuff. Let’s get started!

Sincerely,

David Bergh, Ed.D.
Dean of Student Life & College Relations

WHAT IS AN INTERNSHIP?

An internship is an intensive, short-term learning experience that has significant academic and practical components. Internships provide practical work experiences and acquaint students with the operations and administrative functions of the internship provider.

An internship is not the same as a summer or short-term job. Worthwhile internships have structured learning goals, provide regular mentorship and offer a high-impact learning component that can strengthen your resume. Internships often complement your coursework and may be completed during the academic year or over the summer.

The underlying principle of an internship is “shared value.” Students benefit from meaningful, on-the-job experience and training in a professional work environment; they in turn contribute to the host organization by performing meaningful work and completing projects and assignments with real value. JSC strives to engage businesses and organizations that are committed to serve as active “co-educators” of students who are completing an internship under their guidance.

Internship standards vary from department to department, but in all cases student interns are supervised by on-site professionals in cooperation with a JSC faculty member. The site supervisor is the staff member designated to provide guidance and direction to the student during his/her internship. The faculty supervisor is responsible for monitoring the entire internship experience and providing guidance and support to the student and the site supervisor.

Internships may be paid (by stipend or hourly wage) or unpaid. All successfully completed internships earn academic credit. Students may earn up to 12 credit hours per semester through an internship.

With the exception of the B.A. in Business concentrating in Hospitality & Tourism (HTM), all programs require 40 hours of work for each academic credit you expect to earn through the internship. The requirement for HTM is 80 hours per credit.

“Nothing ever becomes real until it is experienced.”

— John Keats
Develop Internship Objectives

• Talk with your faculty advisor, alumni, friends, family members others to generate ideas for potential internships.

• Reflect on your interests, skills and talents as you consider the kind of experience that “fits” you. The Career & Internship Center has a variety of assessment tools that can help.

• Talk with people in the field(s) you are considering. Visit the Career & Internship Center for tips on informational interviewing.

• Obtain permission from your faculty advisor to apply for and receive credit for the internship. Be sure to have a clear understanding of the responsibilities he/she requires of you.

Prepare Your Resume

• Treat your internship exploration as if you are seeking a job. Start your internship search early.

• Visit the Career & Internship Center for a guide to the job-search process, including resumes, cover letters, interviews and job/internship resources.

• Review your resume draft with JSC’s Coordinator of Career Development, advisors, employers, family members and friends. Ask for feedback.

Locate Internship Opportunities

There are countless internship opportunities available with local, state and national businesses, organizations and government agencies. The first step is identifying what you want to learn and where you want to learn it. Here are some steps you can take to identify potential opportunities:

• Review the list of places where other JSC students have interned. (On the portal landing page, select the “Student Links” tab at upper left, then, under “Academics & Classes,” choose “Internships” to navigate to the page with a link to “Past Internship Sites.”)

• Check out current internship postings at www.jscjobbank.wordpress.com.

• Arrange an informational interview with a professional in the field(s) you are considering. Seek ideas about organizations and businesses that might be interested in interns.

• Let professional organizations, your advisor, employers, instructors, family members and friends know you are seeking an internship. They may have some ideas.

• Research regional and national career-exploration and job-search websites.

• Attend local career fairs.

• Learn more about career possibilities for your major and what recent graduates are doing by exploring “What Can I Do with a Major in...?” on the Career & Internship Center website. (Select “Choosing a Major”.)

Apply for Internships

• Narrow down the number of possible internship sites and put together a prospect list.
Call each prospective internship site (the contact person typically is the director of human resources) or send a resume with an accompanying cover letter. Be sure to note your major at JSC, how many on-site hours you are seeking, your objective for the internship, and the benefit you can provide to the business or organization.

Note: All programs except the Hospitality & Tourism Management (HTM) concentration in the Business major require 40 hours on site for each credit you expect to earn through the internship; the requirement for HTM is 80 hours per credit.

- Research the organization as much as possible prior to the interview.
- Review the Interviewing Guide in the Career Guide (found in the Career & Internship Center) and on the MyJSC Portal.
- Practice answering potential questions — out loud, in the car, with a friend or arrange a mock interview with JSC’s Coordinator of Career Development.
- Send a thank you letter within 24 hours of your interview.

Choose Your Site
- What organizations or businesses are poised to take you on as an intern?
- Which site will offer you the type of learning experience you want?
- What staff and site supervisor seem most prepared to provide the mentorship you need in order to achieve your goals?

Create an Internship Contract
- Once the internship is granted (and before registering for internship credits), create the job description portion of the internship contract with the site supervisor and learn what will be expected of you as an intern.

- The site supervisor must obtain the agency representative’s signature for the Cooperative Educational Agreement section of the Internship Contract and submit it to the Academic Dean’s office.

This agreement details the responsibilities of all parties participating in the internship (site supervisor, faculty supervisor, and student) and verifies that the cooperating site will provide a certificate of liability insurance.

- Meet with the Faculty Supervisor to complete the learning objectives, academic requirements, and evaluation criteria.

Finalize Your Contract
- Obtain signatures from your site supervisor, faculty supervisor, academic advisor and department chair.
- Deliver the contract to the Academic Dean’s office in Martinetti Hall for final approval. Once approved by the Dean’s Office, the contract will be forwarded to Registrar’s Office, which will register you for the academic credits you plan to earn through your internship.
- Finalize payment of the $45 internship fee with the Business Office in Martinetti Hall.

Complete Your Internship!
- Make sure you complete all academic requirements, including your mid-term and final evaluations and your final reflective paper
- Network, gain job experience, learn new skills and have fun!

Roles & Responsibilities of the Student Intern
• Maintain student status and abide by the regulations, policies, and practices of both the internship site and the college.
• Adhere to the standards of the profession and act accordingly.
• Strive to learn as much as possible from the Site Supervisor regarding job experience, work attitude, and skill development.
• Honor the confidentiality of any information about individuals, students, staff, or internship site.
• Utilize supervision and be open to direction and constructive criticism.
• Take responsibility for his/her own preparation and readiness to contribute effectively to assigned tasks.
• Contact the Faculty Supervisor if there are questions or concerns related to the internship.
• Maintain personal health, accident, disability, and hospitalization insurance coverage as well as professional liability insurance if applicable.
• Complete a mid-term evaluation and final self-evaluation or other pre-arranged evaluation.
• Complete all academic requirements agreed upon and as outlined within the internship contract.
• Plan to participate in JSC’s annual Open House and Extended Classroom Showcase in April.

Roles & Responsibilities of the Site Supervisor
• Site Agency will designate an employee to serve as the student’s Site Supervisor, to help the student complete the job-description specifics of the internship application, to orient the student to the site and its culture, to confer regularly with the student and his/her faculty supervisor, to serve as the principle agent for providing experiential learning, and to monitor progress of the student.
• Complete a mid-term evaluation and final self-evaluation or other pre-arranged evaluation.
• Complete all academic requirements agreed upon and as outlined within the internship contract.
• Plan to participate in JSC’s annual Open House and Extended Classroom Showcase in April.

GET THE MOST OUT YOUR INTERNSHIP
The internship experience itself is intended to be a “capstone” experience — one that requires substantial commitment and effort on the part of the student. The tried-and-true saying that “you get out of it what you put into it” directly applies to internships. An internship is your opportunity to demonstrate to potential employers your ability to apply the skills and knowledge you have been mastered.
Remember, this is a learning experience. Take advantage of all opportunities to expand on what you already know and can do.

Roles & Responsibilities of the Faculty Supervisor
• Assist student in internship site exploration, site selection and contract negotiation.
• Certify the student’s academic eligibility to participate in an internship assignment.
• Discuss appropriate internship conduct with his/her intern.
• Oversee the internship progress which includes scheduling meetings with the student intern, conducting site visits (where appropriate and possible), providing academic supervision of the student, and assessing the student’s academic progress.
• Maintain communication with the Site Supervisor and/or Site Agency to ensure that the student is progressing satisfactorily.
• Submit a grade of P (pass) or NP (no pass) after all internship requirements have been met.
• Enforce any additional rules and procedures that are mutually agreed upon in advance in writing between Johnson State College and the Site Agency.

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR INTERNSHIP

Dress for Success
Whether you’re paid for your internship or not, you are considered an employee of the organization. Your everyday attire should adhere to the dress code of the workplace.

See how others are dressed, and dress accordingly. If you are unsure of the dress code, ask. In addition, be mindful of your hair, makeup and accessories. Many people are scent-sensitive, so apply perfume lightly or not at all.

Cell Phones
While at the internship site, your cell phone should be put away and/or silenced; let personal messages go to voicemail. It is never appropriate to take personal calls at work except in emergencies or during breaks. The same applies to texting.

Communication
Be aware of communication protocols at your internship site. Ask your supervisor the best way to communicate with staff. If you will be late or are ill and cannot come to work, know how to communicate that and to whom.

If you find that your internship placement is not working out, contact your faculty supervisor as soon as possible so corrective action can be taken.

Be Positive & Proactive
Review this list of positive and negative intern traits provided by employers as reported in Internship Success: Real-World, Step-by-Step Advice on Getting the Most Out of Internships by M.E. Green (NTC/ Contemporary Publishing Co., Chicago, 1997). Model the positive traits to the best of your ability!

EVALUATING YOUR INTERNSHIP

Evaluations are an important part of every internship experience. You are expected to complete a midterm and end-of-term self-evaluation. Your site supervisor will be asked to evaluate you. Give open and honest feedback and offer specific suggestions for improving your experience. These evaluations are sent to your faculty supervisor at JSC and placed in your internship file. It is recommended to use these completed evaluation forms when meeting with your site supervisor to review progress.

Reflection

Much of what we learn comes not from doing, but from thinking about what we do. Reflecting on your work — by writing, speaking, listening, reading, drawing, etc. — can have a positive impact on the way you feel about the internship. Reflecting involves looking back on your experience, thinking critically about it, and learning from it. It may encompass your feelings, observations and ideas about any aspect of your internship.

The Benefits of Reflection

- It can relieve tension, re-energize and provide renewal (especially important when work is emotionally challenging).
- It can create a sense of closure.
- It fosters lifelong learning skills, e.g., the ability to learn from positive and negative experiences.
- It provides a “reality check,” guarding against inaccurate perceptions/biases.
- It encourages high-level thinking, as they look for root causes of complex issues.

Writing a Weekly Journal

Keeping a weekly journal will help you see your growth in knowledge and skills of leadership, problem solving and decision-making. Many of your faculty supervisors will have you keep journals throughout your internship experience. There are no set questions to answer in your journaling, but the suggestions that follow (adapted in part from “Weekly Internship Journal Blog Prompts” by the Chicago Programs), may help guide your thinking.

Start each entry with the date, time spent at the site, and the activities you performed. Don’t rush through this process; it’s important to give careful thought and reflection to your experience.

Journal Prompts: The Site Environment

Office Politics: What have you experienced with respect to the written or unwritten rules about protocols, hierarchy, and/or communication at the site?

Diversity: What types of diversity do you see in the personnel and the client base? How have you observed/experienced individuals from different demographic groups (male/female, different ages, sexual orientation, race, etc.) interacting with each other?

Funding: What funding sources does the organization have to maintain operations? (You may need to interview someone for this answer.) In your opinion, are there ample resources to fund future projects and a plan to secure these funds?

Sector: Depending on the sector (for-profit, nonprofit or government) of your internship site, how do you think the organization’s structure affects its ability to accomplish its goals? (Consider layers of management, board of directors, volunteers, etc.)
Mission: Compare and contrast the mission statement of the organization with what you observe in the day-to-day operations. Do they actually accomplish their mission?

Journal Prompts: Interpersonal Relationships

Culture/Collegiality: How would you describe the culture within your organization (ways in which co-workers interact or don’t interact), and how does this fit with your “ideal” employer? What insights have you gained about the people with whom you work?

Building your Network: How have you or others in this organization effectively utilized relationship building/networking? In what ways might you strengthen your connections with co-workers for your future benefit?

Collaboration: Describe how the organization collaborates with other groups in the area. Write about a person who is interesting or challenging to work with, and explain why.

Mentoring: In what ways have you experienced or witnessed formal or informal mentoring within the organization?

Journal Prompts: Tasks

Time: How structured and guided is your time? How effective or ineffective does that make you?

Career Path: If you wanted to follow in the career path of someone at your internship site, what would you need to do to make this happen? (Tip: Ask the person for advice and use this in your response.) If applicable, what is the process for gaining employment in this organization? How often are openings available? What is the salary range? What are advancement opportunities? Do you enjoy this type of organization or work? Consider why this organization meets or fails to meet your career objectives.

Workload: How does the organization distribute work among the staff? How equitable do you believe that distribution is?

Responsibilities: What types of tasks are you discovering that you enjoy or excel at? Which ones are less attractive or fulfilling to you?

Journal Prompts: Looking Back at Your Overall Internship Experience

Write about the best thing that happened — something said or done, or a feeling, insight or goal accomplished. What is the easiest part of your work? What was most difficult. What do you feel was your main contribution?

How did your experience at Johnson State College prepare you for your internship? How did you apply your liberal arts education at JSC to your internship?

What about your internship leaves a bad taste in your mouth? (Use this opportunity to vent privately.)

If you were the boss, what would you change, and why?

What about your internship was most surprising to you (i.e., what did you least expect going into the experience) and what lesson or lessons can you draw from this?

JSC sophomore Kelly Shaw spent the fall 2015 semester in Washington, D.C., working as an intern in the Congressional office of Vermont Senator Bernie Sanders.
Fees: All interns pay a $45 internship fee to Johnson State College. When your internship is registered by the Registrar’s Office, your account will be billed at that time.

Unlike internships completed during the fall and spring semesters, which usually are covered by the student’s full-time tuition, students completing internships during the summer must pay for summer tuition credits in addition to the internship fee.

Grading: Internships are graded on a Pass/Fail (P/F) basis only. Students are expected to achieve a satisfactory level of performance throughout the semester. A grade will be assigned by the faculty supervisor, taking into account the evaluations and recommendations of the site supervisor, the quality of written reports and, if required, the internship portfolio.

Holidays & Breaks: Internship students are required to adhere to the holiday schedule of the internship provider. Interns are typically expected to work during college breaks, but this can be negotiated with the site supervisor.

Written Reports
Written reports are required of all interns. Students should confer with the faculty supervisor for specific requirements, which may include reflective journals, academic research, and SWOT (strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats) analyses. In addition, a student may be required to compile a portfolio containing materials collected during his or her internship.

Student Dismissal: Any student behavior deemed inappropriate by the site supervisor will immediately be brought to the student’s attention and to the attention of the faculty supervisor. The student intern, the site supervisor and the faculty supervisor will determine the course of action. If an issue is not corrected within the agreed-upon time, the student will be removed from the site, and the faculty supervisor will determine the student’s capacity to continue with his or her internship. Credit hours are awarded only if a full-term experience is satisfactorily completed.

Compensation: In the case of paid internships, the arrangement for compensation is strictly between the student and the employer. Johnson State College does not get involved. Students may be compensated for their work in the form of wages or a stipend, which might include room and board or other benefits. Students are urged to pursue internships that meet their learning objectives and note base a decision solely on compensation.

It is strongly preferred that interns are paid. If the business or organization is unable to offer a paid internship, consider asking for a stipend to help cover expenses related to the internship, such as transportation and meals.

JOHNSON STATE COLLEGE INTERNSHIP FEES & POLICIES
JSC Student Intern: Please remove this letter from the Internship Contract and give it to your site supervisor before completing the Internship Contract.

Dear Site Supervisor:

On behalf of Johnson State College, I would like to acknowledge your willingness to be an internship supervisor for one or more JSC student. The Johnson State College mission reflects that we are committed to providing an education to our students that crosses academic and other boundaries; creating opportunities for students to extend their classroom learning to the field, the laboratory, the studio, the community, and the local and wider world. Your participation in internships helps us meet this goal and provide wonderful hands-on learning experiences for our students.

You will receive an Internship Contract to complete with the JSC student interning with you. We ask that you review the contract carefully and assist the student in completing the sections that pertain to the site, the internship dates and credits, and the job description (duties and responsibilities of the intern, as well as details about supervision, evaluation, and training opportunities). The student’s faculty supervisor will work with the student to complete the sections relative to learning objectives and academic requirements. Once you have completed your parts and reviewed the responsibilities outlined within the Cooperative Education Agreement (CEA) section of the contract, please sign the contract. The student will obtain the remaining signatures. After I have approved the Internship Contract, it will be forwarded to the Registrar’s Office so that the student gets registered for the credits.

Note in the CEA section that internship sites are required to submit to the College a copy of their certificate of liability insurance. We request that the site supervisor take responsibility for ensuring that a copy of the agency’s certificate of liability insurance is sent to the JSC Academic Dean’s Office at Jo.Lamore@jsc.edu. If your site’s liability insurance does not cover student interns, then please notify the student as soon as possible. The student may continue with the internship, but he/she must submit a note to me indicating his/her awareness of lack of coverage and the desire to complete the internship regardless. All parties will receive a scanned copy of the approved contract (and links to student and employer internship guides). The Internship Contract must be approved by all parties before the student begins the internship.

If you have questions or concerns about this internship, please share them with the faculty supervisor listed on the Internship Contract, or you may contact me in the Academic Dean’s Office. In closing, we appreciate and value your role in internship experiences for our students.

Sincerely,

Jo Ann Lamore
