Course Description: Join dance artist and movement educator Hanna Satterlee for a unique experiential, visceral learning-based course: "Performance Project." With somatic, improvisation, and technical exercises, each class will begin with a guided warm up to strengthen students' relationship to their physical body, creative mind, and to the environment of people and spaces we are creating within. Working as soloists, in partners, small groups and with the full ensemble, students will co-create new choreographic material from abstract imagery, compositional prompts, and physical movement exercises created by Hanna. Throughout the semester we will work together as an ensemble to co-create a performance that involves every voice, every body, and every artist muse in the group. By the end of the semester our studio work will transition to an outdoor (on-campus) location, to improve spatial awareness, deepen and expand the movement material and play with site-specific modalities. The Performance Project course will culminate in an outdoor site-specific showing for friends and fans on campus during the last week of classes. Students will be asked to help the department promote the performance. This course's primary grading structure is based on: attendance, attitude, and effort in class; practice and memorization of material in-between class sessions; and participation in the final dress rehearsal and performance.	30
